Excerpt: . . . Appendix III provides information regarding the military departments military to civilian conversions by geographical region. Each of the military departments has made varying degrees of progress in Military Departments hiring civilian personnel to fill military health care positions that have Making Progress Hiring been converted to civilian positions. According to military department Civilian Replacements officials, the Air Force ceased hiring actions to fill its fiscal year 2006 converted positions in January 2006 and the Army in February 2006 after enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006. However, their experiences to date suggest they have not encountered significant difficulties hiring civilian personnel to fill converted positions. Of the three departments, the Navy has the most experience hiring civilian replacements, filling two-thirds of the positions it converted in fiscal year 2005. As table 2 shows, the Navy converted a total of 1, 772 military health care positions to civilian positions in fiscal year 2005. According to a Navy official, while these conversions took place on October 1, 2004, the first day of fiscal year 2005, the Navy did not begin recruiting civilians to fill the converted positions until July 2005 to allow for (1) Navy military treatment facilities to assess their staffing needs, (2) military personnel to vacate the converted positions, and (3) consultations with human resource offices to develop federal civilian job announcements. Also, the Navy decided not to fill all of the military health care positions it converted. After reassessments of medical and dental staffing levels at its facilities, the Navy decided to fill only 1, 361, or 77 percent,...
