Instead of a four-wheeled bogie, a single pair of leading wheels are also used, carried by a Kissel pony truck, which has a swing-bolster pivoted by a radius bar about a point some distance behind the axis of the wheels. This has the advantage of combining lateral with radial movement of the wheels, both being required if the wheel base is to be properly accommodated to the curve. Another method of getting lateral and radial freedom is the plan used by Mr. Webb of carrying the leading axle in a box curved to the arc of a circle, and free to slide laterally for a short distance, under the control of springs, in curved guides. In inside-cylinder engines the slide-valves are frequently placed back to back in a single valve-chest...
