Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Novel Experiment One result of this policy is that the distinctly over-age pupil is practically unknown in the higher grades of the Newton elementary schools. What this policy is doing for the young people directly affected by it, it is the purpose of this little pamphlet to show. At my request, Miss Mary A. Laselle, who, from the beginning of this policy has been held responsible for the success of the transferred girls during their first year in high school and has given these girls all their instruction in academic subjects, has written the following description of the transfer work and of the subsequent success to date of the first class of girls to be admitted to the high school under this policy. As Miss Laselle shows (pp. 10-12) not only did nine-tenths of the fifty girls admitted remain throughout the year, but more than two-thirds of those who remained through continued their schooling the following year, twenty-seven of them in regular courses of the Technical High; and of the latter twenty-seven, nineteen are now halfway through their second regular high school year. Not only have these girls continued their work, but they have been remarkably successful, decidedly more successful in avoiding failures than the average girl who is admitted in the usual way.
