Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Office Workstation Use Abstract: A previous report described a case study of an office environment to determine requirements needed to support secretarial use of office workstations. This new study reports observations on the work patterns of 18 administrative managers and professionals as they use computer-based function at the San Jose Research Laboratory. Data was gathered through structured interviews based on use of the Critical Success on the variety and diversity of tasks within jobs, use of the message system to avoid telephone tag, appropriate measures for productivity, and the potential for support from Information Centers. General requirements are described for 1) reliable system operation, 2) flexible access to a variety of services, 3) finding information from diverse sources, and 4) support for scanning behavior. These requirements are compared with those observed in the earlier study of secretarial workstation use. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
